

Studies on Community Resource Management Systems in the Indian Himalayan Region

Investigator: Bhattacharya, P

Sponsored by: International Union for Conservation of Nature and Natural Resources (IUCN)

The project looked into the community resource management systems in the Himalayan region with the following objective:

- To prepare an atlas of community managed areas of natural resource management in the North-Eastern Himalayan Region;
- To develop case studies on the 'best practices' of community management of natural resources;
- To analyze the factors that has contributed to the success of these efforts and to provide recommendations for supporting and promoting community management of natural resources.
